HAWTHORNE WINS FIRST MONEY IN MERRILL CONTEST

Speaks On Peril Of Unrestricted Immigration

CARLSON TAKES SECOND PRIZE

Other Awards Go To Hade And Miller

Dana S. Hawthorne, of Waldoboro, Me., won the first prize of fifty dollars in the annual Merrill speaking competition in the Mead Memorial Chapel last Wednesday evening. Second prize of $35 was awarded to Thomas O. Carlson of West Rutland, the third, $25, went to William T. Hade of New York City, and the fourth of $20 to Henry A. Miller of Bridgeport, Conn.

The topic of the prize winning speech was, "The Immigration Peril." Mr. Hawthorne pointed out the danger of the melting pot becoming un-American and the grave peril our country faces in being overrun by various races of the world. "Conglomerate races have poured into America," he said. "In 1922 alone, there rushed in enough Austro-Hungarians to populate twenty-five cities each one the size of Rutland. These people do not want to learn American ideals and traditions. They have their own and are proud of them. Is not the Ku Klux Klan an outgrowth of the feeling, that we as heirs of the old American stock are in danger of losing our heritage? If this rising flood of immigration continues unstemmed, if government by the people becomes mere mockery in the eyes of the world, then America is doomed."

The topic of the second prize winner, Thomas O. Carlson, was, "Our Duty to the Indian," in which the speaker brought out the cruelty with which the American nation in her progress and prosperity, has totally forgotten the existance of this original but now disappearing nation of red men. William Hade, the third prize winner, spoke on "Lawlessness." He stressed especially the growing disregard for law and order in the United States. Henry A. Miller speaking on "Prison Reform" pointout actual conditions in various prisons, among them the Vermont State Prison at Windsor which he recenily visited for the purpose of gaining first hand information. The other speakers were: Wm. T. Brookins of Grand Rapids, Mich., Gladstone Chandler of Andover, Mass., James S. Jackson of Akron, Ohio, and Milo W. Lathrop of Bristol, Vt.

In carrying away the first honors of this contest, Mr. Hawthorne repeated his feat of last year, at which time he won first prize in the Parker contest. Mr. Hawthorne's activities are not confined to oratorical pursuits alone as he is also an Assistant Editor of the Campus. This is the first time in many years that one man has won both contests during his college course.

The program of the evening was varied with organ solos played by Prof. Hathaway and Miss Dorothy Slayton, and with violin solo by Emile T. Holley. The men's Glee Club sang two numbers and an encore. Their singing met with the enthusiastic approval of the entire audience which numbered about three hundred.

The judges were: Edward C. Boynton of Rutland, Prof. Raymond Hall of Burlington, and Miss Mable C. Hamilton of White River Junction.

Remnants of the once-famous Fitzpatrick's Orchestra are playing at occasional New York social functions. Bishop, Prescott, and Fitzpatrick '22 have lost none of their former skill.

Dramatic Club To Give Musical Comedy

An original musical comedy, "Inbad, the Tailor," written by Richard Rapport, Paul Ward and Kenneth Anderson, will be presented by the Dramatic Club near the date of March 15. The cast is as follows:

Joe Inbad	George Mullen
Mildred	Cleone Comings
Sally	Velma Pillings
Detective Slickem Snitchenheimer	Courtland Whitney
Glenwood Raymond	Allan Hunter
Monsieur Bourget	Paul Ward
Mademoiselle Lavalier	Wilma Walsh

Scene, Act I. A Modiste Shop.
Scene, Act II. A Dance Hall.
Scene, Act III. Raymond's Country Estate.

A musical comedy is an unusual event to Middlebury theatre-goers, and this promises to be so great a success that it will be billboarded throughout the United States as a greater hit than "Poppy" and "So This Is London."

ROGERS '23 DIES OF HEART TROUBLE

Popular Young Graduate Succumbs After Long Sickness

Clarence Elmer Rogers, '22, of Windsor, Vt., died at the Mary Hitchcock hospital, Hanover, N. H., last Thursday morning. For some time he had been troubled with heart weakness, aggravated no doubt by his strenuous work at college. He became seriously ill last November, and steadily declined until his death last week. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Luna Rogers, and by one brother, Rev. Ralph Rogers of Providence, R. I.

Mr. Rogers, who was 21 years of age, graduated from Middlebury with honors last June, having been elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Besides pursuing his courses with brilliance, he did much in piano and pipe organ work, being an accomplished musician. He was the writer of the Hymn to Middlebury, which was featured at the home concert of the Glee Club last spring. and met with instant success. He also composed several pieces of religious music which were introduced at the Commencement exercises two years ago. After graduating he conducted music classes in Windsor, intending meanwhile to go to France to complete his education:

"Rog", as he was familiarly known about the campus, was held in high esteem by the whole college community and is sincerely mourned. He held several class offices in addition to his work in music, and was a member of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity.

The funeral was held last Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist church of Windsor, Vt.

Race Prejudice High in America, Says Dr. Cady

"Race prejudice is high in America," said Dr. Cady of the Foreign Board of Missions at the Y. W. C. A. meeting last Sunday afternoon in Old Chapel in his lecture on Racial Problems. Dr. Cady pictured America as God's laboratory where he is experimenting with the races. Race problem is especially prevalent in the North on account of the migration of the negro said Dr. Cady. The true test of Christianity is courtesy at all times. Remember, said Dr. Cady, it is said "in the essentials of life we are all like everyone else, we differ only in things not worth while."

TRUSTEES LOOK FORWARD TO BIG ATHLETIC PROGRAM

Committe To Draw Up Ten-Year Plan of Expansion

CHANGE 1-YEAR RESIDENCE RULE

Hepburn Commons To Be Reopened Permanently Next Fall

At the meet of the Board of Trustees in New York, Jan. 25, President Moody was empowered to appoint a committee of Trustees to draw up and submit to that body a 10-year program for development in athletics and physical education at Middlebury. It is thought that this program will necessitate the outlay of from $400,000 to $500,000. It looks toward the erection of a new gymnasium and toward greater opportunities for athletics-for-all.

It was also voted by the Trnstees that, in accordance with the request of the Undergraduate Association, the one-year residence rule should be modified to be a one-semester resident rule. It was found necessary to do this because of the difficulty in financing and constructing new athletic fields for freshman teams.

A third important action of the Board was the decision that Hepburn Commons should be reopened at the beginning of the next college year and that it should then be kept open permanently.

CLARKSON WINS HOCKEY CONTEST

Blue Puckchasers Display Fine Brand of Teamwork Ice Rough

In the first home contest of the season on Friday afternoon the Clarkson Hockey team defeated the Middlebury puck chasers 2to 0. Although both teams played a fast game they were handicapped to a large extent by a rough playing surface, but the weather conditions were ideal and a large number of students watched the game. In the first few minutes of play, Fenn shot the puck through for the first tally of the game. Neither team was able to score again until just before the close of the contest when Northup, playing right wing for Clarkson, got within scoring distance and scored the second goal. Middlebury, while not being able to tally, displayed a fine brand of team work throughout the game.

Swamp Norwich Yearlings 27-9 In Slow Game Friday Night

The Middlebury freshmen took anoiher step towards the State championship Friday night when they defeated the Norwich yearlings by the lop-sided score of 27 to 9 in McCullough Gymnasium.

The game was slow and uninteresting, both teams missing many tries for the basket- The Norwich team showed a great lack of team work while tho Middlebury team excelled in passing. For the Blue, Roberts dropped in four neat baskets and an equal number of foul shots, being the individual high scorer of the game. "Doc" Eddy was right on his heels, adding ten points to the freshman total.

The first quarter was perhaps the fastest period of the game, Norwich scoring first on a foul shot by Fitzgerald. Roberts then broke away from his guard, scoring two baskcts for Middlebury. The first half ended with the score 11 to 2 in favor of the Middlebury Frosh, Norwich having failed to score from the floor.

The second half was marred by much fouling by both teams. Minor, substituting for Lance, showed up well. Hasseltine played his usual good floor game, holding his man scoreless and breaking through for a basket after a preity dribble. Hasseltine acted as floor captain in place of Rich, who has been shifted to the 'Varsity with the passing of the one semester rule.

The line-up and score follows:

Middlebury '27 (27)	Norwich '27 (9)
Roberts l f	l f Hilton
Patch r f	r f Metzger

ILL HEALTH COMPELS PROFESSOR DE VISME TO QUIT MIDDLEBURY

Trustees Accept His Resignation at January Meeting

LEAVES FOR MUCH-NEEDED REST

His Career a Remarkable One—French School Here His Greatest Work

The resignation of Professor H. P. Williamson de Visme,Dean of the French School, and its acceptance by the Trustees at their meeting of January 25, was announced by President Moody in chapel Monday morning, Feb. 4, at the opening of the new semester. The President's statement follows:

"In October, Professor de Vsme presented his resignation. He was requested to reconsider and after deliberation decided to let it stand. It was accepted by the Trustees with regret and owing to Professor de Visme's health it became at once effective, with leave of absence for the balance of the year. Mrs. de Visme is also relieved of duty for the balance of the year. Until such time as a head of the French department can be appointed, the Secretary of the Faculty will direct the work of the French House and the French department."

His Work Recognized

The Undergraduate Association, in a resolution passed a short time before the examination period, expressed its recognition of Professor de Visme's great services to the College,

This resolution was as follows:

We, the undergraduates of Middlebury College, hereby take occasion to register our recognition and appreciation of the inestimable service that Professor H. P. Williamson de Visme Dean of the French School and Head of the French Department, has rendered to the College and to the students thereof.

A resolution of a similar nature was unanimously adopted by the Board of Trustees at the time Professor de Visme's resignation was accepted.

His Career Remarkable

The story of Professor de Vismee's career is one of remarkable achievement in the face of heavy odds. A graduate of Middlebury in the class of 1896, he spent one year at Princeton and 12 years at the University of Chicago, teaching his favorite subject. At the latter institution he rose to the rank of Assistant Professor in 1912. In that year he became the founder and director of L'Ecole du Chateau de Soisy, Soisy-sous-Etiolles, France, where he remained for several years. He was editor of "Easy French Stories" and Merimee's "Columba." In 1906-07 he was Director de L'Alliance Francaise.

After having taught for several summers in the Middlebury Summer Session, he became a regular member of the Middlebury faculty in 1919. The

To correct a false impression which seems to be current, we wish to state that The Campus is not subject to faculty censorship.

Professor de Visme

In the going of Professor Henri Pierre Williamson de Visme, Middlebury loses one of her most gifted and indefatigable servants. To tell the story of his life is to recount the achievements of a genius, a man of vision, a man who has never known what it was to be beaten. His nervous strength, overtaxed by the exactions of his work and by the tremendous energy with which he tackled all the problems of his department, at last gave out, and he was forced to resign the task which was so dear to him, the development of the French School.

The greatest thng that can be said of a teacher is, "He is be'oved by the students." This can truthfully and emphatically be said of Professor de Visme. He knew his students, he took a personal interest in them outside the classroom. He was more than a professor, he was an inspiring friend. The welfare of his students was a passion with him. A mere instructor may go, and be forgotten in a day. A man who holds the position in the hearts of his students which Professor de Visme holds will never be forgotten.

That he may quickly recover his normal health and be able soon to take up again the crowning interest of his life, the teaching of French, is the sincere desire of his host of friends.

Confidence Is Power

Self-confidence is a great asset to the modern student. He must be able to grasp ideas and retain them, but he must also have confidence to venture further into the intricacies of knowledge.

Confidence is trust, faith; it implies lack of fear. It is manifested continually. We show unbounded confidence in our fellow-men. The business world is built upon it—as is, indeed, the whole social order. Without it we should see our classmates prowling around with clubs over their shoulders every time they crept from their own little hovels in the side of the hill.

In recitation classes a student is lost without self-confidence and must cultivate it to be successful. To do this, he sometimes begins by puttng on a bold front—exaggerating his ability and appearance of ease. This is not true self-confidence as it does not lead to a feeling of security. It is, rather, a blustering protection behind which the bluffer can temporarily take refuge. But boldness which is based upon thoro preparation, after being practiced, begets true self-confidence.

A good teacher welcomes an aggressive, reactionary student, one who is bold enough to think freely and to say what he thinks. Develop confidence and "punch" in the classroom; in later life it will help you to meet problems with the fearless self-reliance which characterizes the successes of great individuals.

Letting The Public Know

In line with the modern idea of "letting the public know" Middlebury has a Press Club for the express purpose of getting Middlebury affairs and the activites of Middlebury students into the newspapers. However, previous to this year the metropolitan newspaper world has been prone to consider us only one of several small colleges and not especially worthy or deserving of much valuable space. But in the past five months all this has changed; radically so, in fact. Probably no college the size of Middlebury has made a more deserving bid for recognition in the big city press of the east.

By holdng Harvard to a tie last fall in one of the outstanding games of the season, Middlebury gained real newspaper publicity. The press of the nation, rather than of one state, at last realized that there was such a college as Middlebury. Then another publicity gun, if it may be referred to as such, was fired in the early part of December when Middlebury had the national honor of being the donor of the tree that was to be the national Christmas decoration in the grounds of the executive mansion in our capital. Once again the press of the entire nation came forward to give Middlebury recognition. From Coast to coast Middlebury occupied valuable and commanding front page space. Now the Glee Club is to sing in New York Mar. 1, together with leading collegiate organizations of the east, which means more good advertising.

Now the rest is up to us. We have the Press Club to desseminate the worth-while news of the college. But this organization cannot exist thru the efforts of only a few students. It deserves and needs the united support of the student body in order to collect all the timely news that is available. Each student should feel it is his duty to leave any news or tips he has with the Press Club. The opportunity has been earned for newspaper publicity for Middlebury. Whether or not advantage is taken of this opportunity is largely dependent on the student support of the Press Club.

While talking to Joe College yesterday the Idler was surprised to hear him remark, "Gosh! Today is Lincoln's birthday and I never sent him a card!"

The Rumpus has not died down yet. Occasional rumblings can be still heard now and again. Prexy and Prof. Bryant were seen stealing into the Campus office last week for extra copies. It is reported that Dean Wiley is so elated at having his name appear on the front page, that he is mailing copies to all of his friends.

Difficult reforms have been accomplish too. Even Prof. Williams anounced to his class the other morning that he had purchased the renowned hair cut.

Many members of the faculty have been sorely wounded to discover that their name did not find its way into the immortal pages of the Rumpus. Prof. Burrage felt so sad that he poured forth his grief into an Ode to the Rumpus, written in the meter of Horace.

The Campus wishes also to apologize for a mistake that appeared last week. As Mr. Bigelow informs us, it was 1902 and not 1901 that he purchased his mackinaw

Dean Ross has had such a tremendous increase in the sale of her hair tonic during the last week as a result of Prof. Perrin's testimonial that she is seriously considering resigning as Dean and devoting her sole attention to the new and growing industry.

"Professor Bryant will meet his classes as usual."—Prexy.

Dr. Collins takes this means of publicly expressing his appreciation to Augustus Mullen and Mgr. Frederickson for the valiant assistance rendered in preventing the attempt upon his life last Wednesday.

Prof. Davison is free again. Those students who won the prizes chipped in and provided sufficient bail to release him from the local lock-up until the trial comes off.

Results of the Tiddlewinks Match: Middlebury 0; Vassar 0.

The far reaching effect of Prof. Robinson's lecture have not yet been fully disclosed. However one freshman has already signified his intention of making Undertaking his life work.

The Idler is moved to syllogistic thoughts. For the past two days he's done nothing but syllogize. Here of deductive reasoning. It was all suggested when he tried is an example of what he has discovered by the process to do his column yesterday.

All genii have periods when they lack inspiration.
The Idler now has a period when he lacks inspiration.
. . . The Idler is a genius.

Dr. Harrington was lecturing in Logic the other day. He was attempting to illustrate psychological results. He named over several examples to which the comment required was that they had to do with psychology. Finally he said, "If a young man allows his emotions to lead him to believe that he is in love with a girl, what is that?" Voice from the back: "Insanity."

ALUMNI COLUMN

There has recently been received at the alumni office a copy of Department Bulletin No. 1189 of the United States Department of Agriculture. This bulletin, which is an exhaustive report of fruits in West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, is the work of George M. Darrow, pomologist in The Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department, and a graduate of Middlebury in the class of 1910. Mr. Darrow has been associated with The Department of Agriculture since 1911, immediately after completing a course in Pomology and Plant Breeding at Cornell University, where he received the degree of A. M. He is the author of many bulletins of his department relating to fruit culture.

An issue of the Japan Mission News, just received, is of unusual interest to Middlebury alumni, because of several graduates and former students of the college whose work is mentioned, notably Dr. George M. Rowland, of the class of 1883, now at Sapporo, Japan, who has been engaged in mission work in that country since 1886. Dr. Rowland's daughter, Mrs. Pauline Sistare Lane, has been with her father in Sapporo for several years.

Of special interest is a cut on one of the pages of the magazine showing the Sistare Memorial Organ in the Sapporo church. The organ was presented to the church by the alumni of Middlebury College, in memory of William Sistare, husband of Pauline Rowland, who was one of the first Middlebury graduates to lose his life in the great war.

Two other Middlebury men, both Japanese, are connected with the Doshisha University in Kyoto. They are Yoshimitsu Zuzuki, '07, and Nobuzo Suyemitsu, '14.

A letter recently received from "Al" Gollnick, '22, might perhaps be of interest to readers of The Campus. In regard to a recent sojourn of some weeks in Paris he writes as follows:

"After putting in a morning of study we used to get a bit of exercise by going to the Ice Palace to skate. We saw the American Olympic team perform there one afternoon just before they went down to Chamonix for the games. The woman figure skater was marvelous. I wouldn't risk my old bones trying even some of the elementary stunts.

"I suppose you read all about the threatened flood in Paris. It was quite serious for a while and brought to mind the great disaster of 1910. On one occasion the water came to within one meter of the height reached in 1910. When I left, the river was practically back to normal. It is certainly surprising that the French engineers can't do something to prevent the river from rising to such height. They know what a terrible experience Paris had in 1910, and should try to cut off a tributary or so and forestall a good deal of the water. The enormous amount of water is caused entirely by melting snow, and I am sure our American engineers would handle the situation in short order. One argument brought to me was one of expense; but certainly the ravages of a flood, one flood, cost as much and more. I can't understand it. The Metro tunnels just rained water near the river and people were afraid to travel that way. Nothing very exciting happened during my stay except the usual visits of a few monarchs and the Prince of Wales,"

In regard to the political situation in Europe, Mr. Gollnick writes:

"The Government lost the vote of confidence by 72 votes. Mr. Atkins thinks it a good thing for Labor to come in at this time. Ramsey McDonald is a capable man and they should be given a chance. After all, Labor can get a majority whenever they wish, having the greatest voting strength, but I am afraid many people, including Mr. Asquith, underestimate the enormous power Ramsey McDonald and his people have and the things they can do, even though they possess a minority of seats in the House of Commons. The pound sterling has taken some downward leaps as a result, and the French franc is by no means stable. I hope that the experts over in Paris now can make something out of the financial muddle of Europe, although Hilaire Belloc doesn't seem to have any confidence in them."

GLEE CLUB SINGS BEFORE BIG CROWD

2500 People Hear Glee Club Sing First Concert In Springfield

Twenty-five hundred people heard the Middlebury Glee Club in it's first appearance of the 1924 season, singing in the big Auditorium of Springfield, Mass, Sunday afternoon. The occasion was the Sunday afternoon service of the Springfield Y. M. C. A., at which Dr. McIlyar H. Lichliter of Newton, Mass., was the speaker, taking for his subject, "Youth and the New Freedom"

Organ music opened the program. The Glee Club, led by Allan Hunter, followed with two numbers sung without accompaniment, Glorious Forever by Rachmaninoff, and Morning Hymn by Henschel. In all probability these are the two numbers which the Club will sing at the Competitive Concert in Carnegie Hall, New York City, Mar. 1. For an encore, the Club gave Toreador, Hola! by Trotere with considerable brilliance. After a hymn by the congregation, Michael Prata rendered a violin solo, Nocturne by Chopin-Sarasate, following with Liebesfreud by Kreisler. His playing was warmly applauded by the appreciative audience of Springfield music-lovers.

The second group of songs by the Glee Club consisted of Goin' Home from the Largo of the New World Symphony, by Dvorak, and the Soldier's Chorus from Faust. The latter was received with especial favor. For an encore the Club sang The Jolly Blacksmith's Lay by Geibel. Oh Fair, Oh Sweet and Holy by Cantor, was the song sung by Allan Hunter, whose lyric tenor met with great favor. His encore was Little Mother of Mine, by Burleigh.

The members of the Club received much hearty commendation on their singing from many who heard them. Several Middlebury alumni were present and were greatly pleased at the work of the Club.

Rev. Frank S. Gredler '19 is minister of the Unitarian church of East Bridgewater, Mass. Mrs. Gredler, who was formerly a member of the class of 1918, is also a minister and at present is supplying the Unitarian church at Marshfield Hills, Mass. The ministry of the Gredlers is said to be very successful as the growth of their respective churches will show.

RACE PREJUDICE RULES, SAYS CADY

Flaming Cross of K. K. K Is Destroying Christ's Cross of Love

"There is one man," said Dr. Charles Cady at the Vespers Service Sunday, "whose name shines altogether lovely, a man who was born in the lowliest estate and who reached the highest—Abraham Lincoln. We may ask what he has left us as the guiding light in our American life. He left us his faith in the glory and worthwhile-ness of the human soul. He believed that in the temple of the human body was a human soul, equal to every other human soul, and it mattered not to him what might be the color of that body.

"The world is turning to America for leadership to peace. We cannot lead to peace unless we establish here the elements by which peace can be obtained. Moral disarmament is what we need. It has always seemed to me that here in this country God has established his great racial laboratory. We must have done with talking of Anglo-Saxon superiority; we must combat our readiness to be inflamed by a touch of racial hatred. The world may need the kind of education you young people are getting here, but intelligence will never save the world if there is not brotherhood between human beings, if they do not believe in the gospel of goodwill and love. Can we prove that the world is a place where we can live together in peace, and prove that men can be men, though they differ in blood and color?

"Democracy is the organized expression of that goodwill and brotherhood which Christ gave to us. And yet, to take Jesus in earnest is the last thing we ever do. The world cannot be saved until it is permeated by the Christ-Spirit, until we have learned to take Him in earnest. Throughout the United States race-prejudce is growing, prejudice against the negro and the Japanese. The flaming cross of the K. K. K. is lifted up over the hooded heads, representing race-hatred, race-pride. But the cross of Christ was the flaming cross of love. We cannot but hope that some day the cross ofhatred will be destroyed and the cross of Christ will take its place, for, 'The greatest of these is Love!'"

ST. MICHAEL'S WINS HOCKEY CONTEST

Defeats Blue Sextet By 2-1 Score Saturday At Burlington

St. Michael's hockey team defeated the Varsity sextet 2 to 1 Saturday afternoon at the Centennial Rink in Burlington. The game was fast throughout and the result in doubt until the end. The Purple and Gold relied mostly on individual playing while Middlebury exhibited some team work.

The first quarter was fast. The puck was carried up and down the rink only to be lost when the defence was encountered. Fletcher and Weeks did some fine work in this period with Tinning and R. Harvey doing likewise for St. Michaels. The second period was only a few minutes old when Captain Papineau scored St. Mike's first goal by a long shot from the center of the ice. Time and again Maroney stopped many Middlebury shots that looked like sure counters.

After three minutes of play in the last period, Fletcher made a pretty shot from center ice, tying the score. Both teams then urged themselves to the utmost to produce the winning shot. R. Harvey took the puck down the left side of the rink and shot but Connelly was on the job and stopped it. The puck rebounded and Captain Papineau shot it in for the winning goal.

Both teams played a clean, good game only one penalty being inflicted.

SPRINGFIELD WINS FROM BLUE 43-28

Game Fast and Thrilling—Rich Stars Scoring 21 Points

In an exciting and well-played game Friday night the Blue and White was forced toaccept a 43-28 defeat from Sprngfield Y. M. C. A. College, champions of New England last year. The play of Oosting, all New England guard for the past two seasons, was one of the features of the game which eclipsed the New Hampshire University game in excitement.

The game was fast and kept the large crowd of spectators on edge throughout. Middlebury started with a rush and scored four baskets to Springfield's one in the first three minutes of play. Rich '27 playing his second game for the Varsity, caged the first basket from midcourt. Rice followed wth a pretty shot from under the basket. Rich and Rice then alternated for two more field goals. At this point the Springfield captain called time in an effort to stop the Middlebury rush.

At the end of the first period Middlebury had refused to surrender the lead, but by half time with the loss of Fish, and personal fouls combined with excellent passing and consistent shooting the Springfield team took the lead and kept it throughout the remainder of the game.

The Varsity showed a marked mprovement in team play over any previous game this season. The addition of Rich proved valuable, since the ex-yearling captain garnered 21 out of the Middlebury's total of 28 points. His floor work and passing was of the highest calibre.

For the visitors Oosting was the outstanding star. In addition to holding Lambe to one basket he scored five from the floor and two via the foul route. "Shorty" Rice played an excellent game scoring two field baskets and holding his man well in check. Holquist's play as a back guard was responsible for the comparatively low score of the visitors. Time and again he broke up the almost perfect attack of the Springfield five.

The line-up and score follows:

Springfield (43)	Middlebury (28)
Lobes lf	rb Rice
Hanson	McNeil
Reddick rf	lb Hollquist
Eckerson	Klevenow
Cowley c	c Fish
Stull	Riegelman
Banks lb	rf Rich

Choice of a Career

From the Yale News

THE NINETY-FOUR

Someone, probably an insurance agent, was quoted recently as saying that from the mass of one hundred college graduates one individual only rose to the Polo and butler class, perilously near the top of the financial ladder. Five others became comfortably off and found themselves after twenty years at the small yacht and chauffeur stage. The other ninety-four presumably congregate in the great section of the American people who drive their own Buicks to the golf club. In other words, dreaming about being a rich man is one thing, and making the grade is "something else again."

Yet the ninety-four presumably work just as hard as the sumptuous six. Their business is the axis on which a small and uninteresting world revolves. They have become devotees of the dollar and when that fickle deity deserts, have nowhere else to turn. Jammed in a dull, straight rut of business they can never leave the road and jump the fence into finer fields of life. This, then, is the portion of ninety-four men out of every hundred now on the campus.

The answer to the problem lies in the proper choice of a career.

Between now and Commencement we shall have something to offer on the subject of "Careers." Watch for the space with the Famous Signature.

At the organization meeting of Phi Pi Epsilon, newly formed honorary journalistic fraternity, Monday afternoon, the name of the fraternity was adopted, officers elected, and plans outlined for the workings of the fraternity, which it is hoped, will bring the various publications of Middlebury into closer contact with each other and prove of mutual benefit to all.

The officers of Phi Pi Epsilon for the remainder of this year are as follows: President, Reginald L. Cook, '24, editor of the Saxonian; vice-president, F. Beacom Rich, '25, editor of The Kaleidoscope and assistant editor of The Handbook, secretary, Lloyd C. Harris, '26, one of the founders and first editor of The Blue Baboon, assistant editor of The Campus and editor of The Press Club; treasurer, John E. Connelly, Jr., editor of The Blue Baboon.

A committee of three consisting of Edgar T. Austin, O. W. Cooley and C. S. Botsford has been appointed relative to making a final revision of the proposed constitution. Phi Pi Epsilon will later petition Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalistic fraternity, for a charter of membership.

TEACHING IS FIRST CHOICE OF FRESHMEN

Ten Men and 29 Women In C. C. Course Attracted By Teaching Profession

Teaching is the first choice of professions of 29 women of the class of 1927 according to recent reports made by the members of the class in their work in Contemporary Civilization. Ten of the men also staked their preference on teaching, which seems to be the most popular occupation with both sexes.

Each student was required to make a study of the three occupations in which he was most interested and for which he considered himself best adapted, and to show why he selected one of these as his first choice. The following tabulation of the vocational objectives of the members of the Freshmen class has just been given out at the Dean's office and is made up from the occupations which were indicated as first choice.

Ill Health Compels De Visme To Leave

following year the French House was opened, and Professor de Visme was made Dean of the French School. In this same year his services were recognized in a singular manner when he was made a Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur.

When Professor de Visme first returned to Middlebury to teach in the Summer of 1914, there were but 6 students in the French Department of the Summer Session. In 1919, there were 51 students in the French Summer School,one-fourth of the total attendance of the Summer Session. In the summer of 1923, there were 204 French students, representing 27 different states. All who have known Professor de Visme and his accomplishments, know that his work has always been marked with extreme thoroughness and care rather than with the attempt to teach great numbers. The Middlebury French School, built up by his own indefatigable energy and genius is nationally anl internationally known.

Cambridge University, England, will be represented at Pennsylvania Relay Race Carnival this year.
